Literary Horizon
An International Peer-Reviewed English Journal
Vol. 1, Issue 2 www.literaryhorizon.com May, 2021

Fake Your Promises Were!

Muhammad Zahid
Student,
Government Postgraduate College Kohat,
Kohat, Pakistan.

Let it be known to perfidious;
that the naive person you left alone,

Is spending life in darkness,
Living is like detainee in solitude.
Fighting to be free from love's shackles,
From the lines of fortune,
From the grief of life,
Alas! unfortunately I couldn't.

Learnt how to live a life,
With your constant absence & ignorance.
My question however remained unanswered,
Have we grown for separation & sorrows,
We don't get a chance of meet again,
It's impossible to live as we lived before,
Have you forgotten promises & memories,

Those promises and memories,
Which are inked on my soul.